

TUESDAY, JULY 5, 1872.

THE PEACE JUBILEE has been a pecuniary success, notwithstanding the profligacy of failure made by the correspondents of the New York press, who have been decidedly malignant in their hostility to the great New England enterprise. The Coliseum has been well filled every day, and the immense crowd on Saturday last, the 2d, the "Jubilee's" tenth, before an unwearying host of the people in the monster mischievous occasion. The "Boston Barn," the name given to the Coliseum by the New York Herald, will paper has revealed in sensational glottings over its reported failure of the Executive Committee's plans, has had gathered within its walls multitudes of people as no other section of the country can, together for a similar occasion, and every visitor with whom we have conversed echoes the general expression of entire satisfaction with the entertainments, which, in the mass of musical talents presented, can never be surpassed. The opportunity of listening to such masters of music as have been gathered within the lifetime of man, and no amateur at the concerts will ever forget the impressions produced on their minds by the waves of harmony which have rolled through the vast Coliseum for days in succession. The great cantatrice, Madame Peschka-Leutner, has surpassed all the previous musical celebrities who have come to this country, and her voice has been given to us to the capacities of the human voice in utterance of song, in a manner which has won for her a tutor of approbation. The qualities of the music of the different bands has drawn out a great deal of controversy relative to the merits of each corps of musicians, and in the mind of clashing preferences, it would be hard to say which should be deemed as superior. A constant attendance upon the concerts, however, has produced in our own mind the conviction that in thoroughness of execution and classical severity of musical taste the Band of the Kaiser Franz Grenadier Regiment is unapproachable, though their performances demand a close attention and musical taste which are not to be found in any other band. The ORGAN CONCERT given by R. F. Raymond last Wednesday evening, at the Union Congregational Church, South Weymouth, was in point of music a decided success. Owing to the Jubilee mania, which people at present seem to be possessed of, no audience was large enough to have the organist, Mr. Raymond, Mr. Tuck, and his organ, which was certainly of the highest order, and if his musical talents develops in the future as in the past, he certainly must rank among the best players in the country. One can not judge of his ability in ordinary church music, although he renders that with a touch and finish superior to most organists. He is perfectly equipped for that, and that is that his whole soul seems thrown into his work, and we are reminded of the old quotation from "La Rude."

And music, too, dear music! that can touch the heart of man! His pedal playing elicited a hearty encore, and at the close of the entertainment he was made the recipient of a mammoth bouquet, cut and arranged at the fine green house of Albert Tressel, Esq.

PAULINE TUCK, Mrs. R. C. Cushing, for many years a faithful and well tried teacher in one of our public schools, graduated from the service last week. As an appreciation of her kindness and in tact in gathering the love of the children, the parents very generously contributed and presented her with a silver cake basket, easer, and set of knives. May she live long and enjoy the fruits of her labors, and may she, with scholars and parents, EXAMINATION.—The examination of the High School took place last Thursday afternoon. The scholars acquitted themselves quite creditably, considering the close quarters into which they were packed. Certainly such conducted room in which most cramp their ideas, in the examination hall, is perfectly suited for those who, for aesthetic, town like Weymouth, young ladies and gentlemen are compelled to spend their school days in an uncomfortable room as that of the High School of South Weymouth. The need of a suitable building must be apparent to the School Committee, who may provide some suitable place where parents and friends may be admitted to witness the school examination was served in the banquet room.

REWARD OF MERIT.—A new method of award to scholars for constant attendance at school has been adopted by J. H. Leonard, Esq., Principal of the Pratt Grammar School, Weymouth, which has produced a gratifying change from the irregular and haphazard method of the day of the stay of former teachers. Mr. Leonard noticed the scholars that those of their number who excelled in this particular should have their names publicly announced in the columns of the Gazette; and in accordance with the promise, we present the names of ten scholars who have been neither absent nor tardy during the past term. These are—Silas H. John Shaw, Hattie Barker, Ella Croker, Mary Dyer, Abby Dyer, Lucinda French, Hattie Poole, Eliza Tisdale and Elizabeth Weeks.

MONUMENTAL STRUCTURE.—The descendants of the late Silas Binney, Esq., of Lynn, have recently placed in the Village Cemetery a noble and substantial structure, the shaft being erected in the centre of a large family lot, which has been enclosed with a substantial border of finely hammered Quincy granite, and subdivided into six portions, for the families of Silas Binney, Joshua Binney, Joseph Green, Gen. Baker, L. W. Holgate, and Francis. The granite monument is of the best Italian marble, and is of an angular form, with tablet on each of the six sides, the whole surmounted with an urn. The structure is eight and one-half high, including the granite base, and was designed by Mr. Geo. S. Baker, of the Weymouth music store, the work being executed by Mr. John Harrington, of Cambridgeport. The entire cost of the work is about $1500.

RUGGATTA.—At the regatta of the Boston Yacht Club, last Saturday, the sloop Secret, Capt. J. Binney, of Weymouth, was the third boat in the return to the judge's station—the distance, seven miles, being sailed in 1 hour 26 minutes, 20 seconds, about three minutes behind the winning boat, the Queen May. With a stiff breeze the Secret would probably have been the first boat in. Ellen Denison, Esq., of Braintree, was one of the judges of the race.

A NOVEL INVENTION.—Mr. Charles Gardner, of East Braintree, is at work on a new kind of propeller, similar to the thruster which the Secret is fitted with, and will be connected with paddle-wheels, the model of which we learn works very satisfactorily. A common ship's long boat is being fitted with the contrivance, and a trial trip will soon be made on the Merrimac.

BASE BALL.—A match game of base ball was played on Saturday last, between the Young Americans of Weymouth, and Escorts of Colchester, with score of 24 to 14, in favor of Young Americans.

SUNDAY DEATH.—Mr. Quincy Lord, of South Weymouth, was found dead in the rear of his barn on Saturday week. He is supposed to have died of heart disease.

SUNDAY SERVICE.—Mrs. Mary A. Livermore will supply the desk of the First Universalist Church, Weymouth, next Sunday at 12 A. M. The public are invited to attend.

FLAGSTAFF.—The Weymouth Iron Co. have erected a flagstaff on Zion's Hill, the staff being 110 feet long.

OPENING OF THE HYGIENIC RETREAT.—Last Friday evening, Mrs. L. W. Holgate received a large party of friends at the formal opening of her establishment for the accommodation of invalids, which bears the title of "The Hygienic Retreat." The weather was quite unfavorable, but a large number of invited guests resided in the town, and from abroad, were present, and were conducted over the establishment, which is admirably fitted for the convenience of patients, containing a large number of apartments, all in all fitted up with all the modern conveniences. After the company had concluded their examination of the premises, Mrs. Tuck called them together, and in a few remarks gave a brief outline of her motives in commencing this work, the difficulties she had encountered in carrying out her plan, and its final accomplishment, which she explained in an able and pleasing manner. Rev. Mr. McLean was then called upon to address the company, to which invitation he responded with much earnestness, with sufficient humor intermingled to make his remarks interesting to all. General Tuck, his present, and made a few remarks right to the point, and accompanied with the general feeling characteristic of the speaker, Dr. Greeley, who was next called out, this engine was well filled every day, and the immense crowd on Saturday last, the 2d, the "Jubilee's" tenth, before an unwearying host of the people in the monster mischievous occasion. REMOVAL AND PRESENTATION.—Mr. Elbridge G. Gardner, of East Weymouth, has received and accepted an invitation to take charge of an extensive boot and shoe manufactory in St. Joseph, Missouri, and for that city, for that year. Friday. The members of the Masonic Choir of which body Mr. Gardner has been an esteemed and valued member, determined that he should not leave town without some manifestation of their good will and fraternal feeling toward Bro. Gardner, and accordingly invited him, with his lady, to meet them at Masonic Hall, when he shall be present, before enrolling the pair with a ring of brotherhood. Mr. Alpheus Bates, the director of the Masonic Choir, stepped forward, and with a brief but pertinent address, presented Mr. Gardner with a set of elegant solid gold sleeve buttons, wrought with Masonic emblems. Mr. Gardner's surprise at the gift was evident, and he thanked him from responding promptly, and when he had concluded his remarks, Mrs. John F. Prior, presented Mrs. Gardner with a fine gold thimble, as a token of esteem, the address and reply being very applicable to the occasion. The evening was pleasantly occupied in social enjoyment of singing, &c., and an excellent collation was served in the banquet room.

FRIDAY, JULY 19, 1872.

NEW BRUNSWICK NOTES.—Sir John, in the heated term, is a delightful point of recreation and recovery from the tropical temperature which has prevailed in laborious Boston for several weeks. A few days of sojourn in the cool temperature of this Arcadian clime, which we have enjoyed by the kindness and courtesy of George F. Field, Esq., agent of the Eastern Railway line to the Province, enables us to speak appreciatively of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia; and for the benefit of readers who have a week or two of leisure, we append a few notes of the trip via the steamers. New England and New York. These steamers leave the end of Commercial wharf, Boston, at 8 A. M. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, making the passage in about three days, the main objects of interest along the coast from Cape Ann to Cape Elizabeth, among them the rocky shore and twin lights of Thacher's Island, which have been transferred to canvas by one of Boston's noted artists and furnish a remarkably marine sketch. The coast of Shoals, and different promontories on the route, with the islands of Casco Bay, all forming a panorama picturesque in the extreme.

Leaving Portland, two hours of daylight, and from sunrise next morning till we reached Eastport at nine, gave one a pretty good opportunity of studying the beauty of the coast and the country. At Eastport, and for hours' diversion, and thoroughly explored the town and its surroundings. A place altogether undesirable for a long residence, characterized as it is by every evil of decaying fish, as constant as unfragrant. There is a detachment of the United States Fifth Heavy Artillery (Company A) stationed here on parole, and, unless it be the smugglers who favor the English Island of Cobscook, just opposite—need a good deal of looking after.

Underway again, we steamed along shore for a while, almost under the shadow of huge cliffs, dark with swallow-haunting caverns, and bright with an occasional cascade of brook, which, falling down them into the inland the whole scene was very picturesque; a constant succession of rough-looking hills, with stunted and weather-beaten pines and cedars growing about their bases, and beyond them cold blue mountain peaks, fading into an equally forbidding sky. Now and then we would catch sight of a fishing and farm village, here and there, and a single solitary elm or a bit of orchard took nothing from the hard-featured character of the general landscape. Then curving into the outer Bay of Fundy, the steamer swept past some half a dozen islands, and, after a thirty-six hours' run, arrived at St. John, a quaint old place, its dwellings, with their exuberant growth of trees, being decidedly ornate. There the houses, too, have stairways running up to the outside, though, of course, the walls other than such an arrangement, stop half way, and, dodging through an open door, complete the ascent inside. Many of the public buildings are very well-preserved, externally and internally; the Catholic Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, built of some sad-colored stone, and having a spire on its eastern front, being decidedly ornate in effect. The bishop's house, adjoining, is also a fine piece of architecture, and the same may be said of Trinity and St. Stephen's churches, the City Hospital, and the Asylum for the insane. The latter building, however, is not in the city proper, but in the suburbs, and is built of a light-colored limestone of hills which overhang St. John, and offer many extensive and delightful views of the surrounding scenery.

The Suspension Bridge is seen to the best advantage from the fort, which, with old stone tower close at hand, that no one seems to know anything about, and the tunnel, a strong reminder of Niagara. As the tide rises the plunging waterfall disappears, and the river lies as smooth as a pond, with vessels sailing over its surface. At a higher flow of the salt water the cataract tumbles up, instead of down the river—the rushing tide from the Bay of Fundy, overrunning the river current and the fort.

A sail up the St. John river to Fredericton, by one of the fine river steamers, affords a delightful day's recreation, and abounds in interesting features, the banks of the river, in point of natural beauty, much resembling the Hudson. Passengers for different villages on the river are transferred to the shore by means of small boats, which are well suited for landing purposes. Occasionally a huge raft of timber from the far off sources of the stream comes floating past, propelled by a puffing tug-boat, conveying the products of the forest to the mills below, where the timber is prepared for market. Huge cliffs of limestone abound on the banks, and lime-kilns are erected along the shore, the rock being taken in addition for the builder's use, and adding materially to the wealth of the Province.

A limited stay in the city of St. John gave but a meager idea of the surrounding attractions, which are numerous, and would require a visit of weeks to thoroughly explore. We can assure our readers, however, that they are abundantly rewarded by a trip to the Province of rail or water, and should they wish to obtain information relative to the route, by calling on Mr. Field, at No. 134 Washington St., Boston, they will be ticketed to all points at the lowest rates, and be thoroughly posted in matters of travel.

FOOTNOTES.—The particulars of the decease of N. A. Langley, Esq., mentioned in last week's Gazette, have been received by his friends here, and from a letter written by him to his wife, we learn that he was continuing his tour of the country to the Province of Massachusetts, we learn that the party left Marshfield, Mass., with their team, it being thought advisable to take this mode of conveyance in preference to travelling in the cars, owing to the feeble health of Mr. Langley. They camped out every night, making about 32 miles a day, and July 10, were in the vicinity of Wausau, Minn., and though the invalid was rapidly failing, he expressed a desire to reach the house of Mr. Abbott, formerly of Wausau, now located in Rochester. They journeyed till 1 o'clock P. M., and reaching the home of Mr. Abbott, a physician was called, but it was evident that he had no time to be of service, and the brother continued to sail until early morning of July 4th, when he passed away. The members of the 14, A. R., in Rochester, on learning of the death of their comrade, immediately took charge of the arrangements for the funeral, and paid the last tribute of respect to the brother who had fallen in a strange land.

THE SABBATH SCHOOL ASSOCIATION of Weymouth and Braintree will hold their next meeting at the first Congregational Church, Braintree (Rev. Mr. Tenney) next Saturday evening, 21st inst., at 7 P. M. The officers of the Association, the members of the Pilgrim Church, North Weymouth, Subject: "What shall we teach?" Committee will meet at 7 o'clock at the same place. Pastors receiving the above please give notice. A. P. Nash, Secy.

THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION of Horace Greeley as the candidate of that party for the Presidency, was a foreseen event of the Baltimore Convention; but that it will prove a disaster to the party, and that the nomination will be denounced by "old timers" as not fit to be made, one of them asserting that "it is a final death blow to the democratic party, and will result not only in Grant's reelection, but in the disbandment of the Democratic organization." The nomination is the end of the ferment of shades of corruption, thievery, swindling, etc., which have been the ground of opposition to the administration of Grant, and which have united the Democrats and Liberal Republicans in their attempt to retire the President to private life in the coming election, it will be interesting to those figures which the friends of the administration are looking forward to prove the feasibility of the changes of the reformers, particularly those relating to government defalcations, the following being a list of all the losses of government since 1869.

Internal Revenue, $263,185.50
Customs (including defalcation of deputies), 34,000.00
Treasurer's Office, 55,037.45
Post Office, 91,500.00
and Office, 15,397.95
Money Order Office (Post Office Department), 133,942.26
Disbursing Account (Post Office Department), 36,000.00
Paymaster General's Office (War Department), 463,209.48
Freedmen's Bureau (War Dept), 5,500.00

Total, $1,097,665.61
This includes every case in which the law officers of the Government have determined that the evidence is of such a character as to warrant a prosecution for the crime of embezzlement or defalcation, and includes all well-known cases which have attracted public attention during the past three years.

Compared with this loss the amount of money collected and expended during the same time, and we have an idea of the general honesty of the service. We do not believe there is a business firm in the land whose percentage of error is as great as that of the government. The aggregate receipts for the past three years have been $1,165,523,169.73. Expenditures during the same time, $924,667,026.80, making a grand total of $2,093,220,196.53. Out of this large amount little over $1,000,000 have been lost.

A CARD.
E. W. HENRY, Agent
American Fire Extinguisher Co., a Dear Sir:—Your portable Fire Extinguisher saved my shoe factory from being wholly destroyed by fire on the night of the 24th June, and I can speak very highly in favor of your Machine. You will please send me two more of your Extinguishers, as I think them invaluable. A. R. MOTTON.

North Weymouth, July 13th, 1872.

HETHER, CAT.—Mr. J. F. Baxter, Principal of the Grammar School at East Weymouth, has accepted an offer to take charge of a school in Winchester, at a salary of $1,800. Mr. Baxter has greatly advanced the standing of the school at East Weymouth in his term of teaching, and the public regret his departure.

Constable Pratt, with assistance on Saturday night visited the Rockland House, Bay View House, Hammond House, Sea Foam House, Atlantic House, Oregon House, Jefferson House, and found the usual varieties of "ardent" which they took to the store-house.

[For the Weymouth Gazette]

The golden sun sets, against the western sky, Served in the evening by the west wind, With eager eyes, it trembling, The instant goes, it vanishes, Without the power of speech. I thought to say, but then it stealing Every ray of light, it faded.

The day is closing, Thick darkness gathers round, And the stars are few, There fell a heavy sound, "Tis like the gentle whisper, Of the soft wind in the boughs, The sun is low, The sky is dark, The world is still, And the stars are few, The sun is low, The sky is dark, The world is still, And the stars are few.

How long!—
My grave the summer grass were growing,
Or heeding winter winds across it blowing,
Through joyous June, or desolate December, How long, sweetheart, how long would you remember?

How long, dear love, how long?

For brightest eyes would open to the summer,
And sweet smiles would greet the sweetness, come,
And on young lips grow kisses for the taking,
When all the summer buds to bloom are breaking!—

How long, dear love, how long?

To the dim land where sad-eyed ghosts walk only.

Where tears are cold, and waiting hearts are lonely,
I would not call you from your youth's warm bliss,
Fill up your glass and drown it with new tears!—

How long, dear love, how long?

Two gay, in June, you might be to regret me,
And living lips might was to forget me;
But, sweetheart, I think you would remember!

When such were weary in your life's Deceder!—

How long, dear love, so long!

Farm, Garden and Household.

PEM-CARE.—Nine pounds of flour, one egg, three pounds of sugar, one teaspoonful of yeast, one spoonful of rose-water, Spice to your taste; wet with milk.

TO DISINFECT CASTOR OIL.—Rub up two drops of cinnamon with an ounce of glycerine and add an ounce of castor oil. Children will take it as a luxury, and ask for more.

TO DRIVE OFF RATS AND MOLES.—As a correspondent of the Pomologist has found that potatoes in rat-holes and mole-holes will clear the premises of these pests in a short time.

BUTTERMILK BISCUITS.—Take half a pint of buttermilk and one pint of flour; rub into the flour a piece of butter, add one large egg, one pound of sugar, one scoop of cinnamon, add a little hot water, and stir into a dough. Roll out enough to mould smooth. Roll out and cut out like tea biscuits.

HONEY FLOUR CAKE.—Take four eggs, and well beat. Sift in five cups of flour. Add two cups of honey, one of sweet milk, two teaspoons crema of tartar, one of soda, one pound of raisins and currants, one quarter of a pound of nutmeg, one teaspoon each of cloves and cinnamon. Bake in large loaves and slow oven. This keeps fresh for months.

GOON SUBSTITUTE FOR CHICKENS.— Take corned beef, cook it tender; when cold slice thin; have a crock of pickles on hand, and a pound and one-half of light bread, and so on until your dish is fully prepared; add a little salt and pepper, and a piece of butter the size of an egg; fill up your dish with boiling water; put on your top crust, and bake moderately
on your top crust, and bake moderately in the oven.

CULTIVATING CORN.—To hill or not to hill is still an open question, but no one doubts the advantage of thoroughly and repeatedly cultivating the corn crop. In the pressure of other works, however, many neglect to use the cultivator as frequently as they should. Let the cultivator alone, in a ready soil, when there is an hour to spare during haying, it may be profitably spent in the cornfield. It never pays to use a poor cultivator or to set a careless man to cultivate, as the hard spots that need it most, will be apt to be left unplowed. Our own plan is to thoroughly cultivate the plants to another small weeds in the hill.

BEEF CROPS IN NEW YORK.—It is not merely in the details of farming operations that we should aim to render our labor more effective—we must more than ever strive to make our crops more valuable, which will compel us to pay more for them. The farmer who is a good husbandman will be rewarded.

At the same time he put down the point of his umbrella into the hole of a knot in a tree, and drawing it up, to the astonishment of both, found the very ring on the ferrule of the umbrella.

SUMMER DRINKS.—Ice-water should drink but sparingly. A most excellent substitute for it is pounded ice taken in small lumps into the mouth and allowed to dissolve upon the tongue. This will prove very refreshing and much more enduring in its effects. Lemonade is a simple and grateful beverage. To make it, boil a quart of water, add a half pound of sugar, and when it is well dissolved, strain it through a cloth, add the juice of two lemons, and a few ice-cubes. This will furnish quite a refreshing drink, and one that will help oftentimes to avert a sick-headache and biliousness.

Citric acid is obtained from the juice of lemons and limes.

Two CROPS AT THE SAME TIME.—The fact that it is possible to raise two different crops at the same time on the same ground by mixing the soil is not very widely known, but when known is very seldom made use of. The practice is new, for Scotch farmers have for many years past been in the habit of raising crops of oats and beans together, with the effect of gaining nearly as much as could be produced by raising these crops on different soils. Two and a half bushels of oats raised with two and a half bushels of peas will yield a crop nearly equal in bulk to the two crops raised separately. Turnips or rye sow in the rows between corn, and harrowed in after the last working, when the corn is harvested, will not effect the yield of corn, while very excellent crops for winter wheat may be secured.

Wheat.—A London correspondent says it is high time that the Princess of Wales was back in society to teach it how to dress decently. In consequence of her example, bare bosoms and shoulders, during the past few seasons, have been almost unknown to the English people. Turnips or rye sow in the rows between corn, and harrowed in

after the last working, when the corn is
harvested, will not effect the yield of corn,
while very excellent crops for winter wheat may be secured.
